Military Board Sits in Deaver to Audit Bills; Mann Halts Investigation

WALSENBURG, Nov. 8 (Saturday).—Four or five bridges on the branch of the Denver & Rio Grande between Cuchara Junction and the main line were discovered on fire shortly after midnight. It is impossible at this hour to gain any definite information as to the damage done. This branch is the one that brings the output of the Rouse and Lester mine, better known

The House mine is one of the largest properties of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company, and the largest in the world. It has been operating right along, maintaining the guards to protect the property. Its normal output is 360 tons a day and yesterday the output was 750 tons, showing they have enough men in the mine to maintain an output that will warrant consideration. With this basis, based on their word, we never have no way to get their coal to the market.

There was a rumor about town last night that the Sunnyside mine would start work today and men for that purpose would come in on the night shift. The Sunnyside men have to be in the mine when they start up the maintenance of the mine in the northern Colorado coal fields, pending the settlement of the present strike, and proper building of the vouchers and warrants. State Auditor Roady Kennerly, who has declared he will not sanction the military expense, left the state tonight for Seattle, Wash., and during his absence an effort will be

Efficiency Added to Lists; Roy Adds 178 Applications

GOAL NEARLY REACHED

A strong, centralized organization of 1,900 active members the goal set at the time of the consolidation nearly three years ago is nearly a realization.

President Frank A. Perkins at the close of the War of the Roses last night, issued an appeal to every member of the Chamber of Commerce to help bring the membership to the 1,000 mark. Many of the present members expressed their faith in the organization by subscribing to additional memberships. More than 75 firms now carry from two to ten memberships. Several others yesterday pledged additional memberships for 1914.

Colorado City gave splendid support and showed its willingness to cooperate more closely with Colorado Springs in movements for the general upbuilding of the Pike's Peak region.

of the Pikes Peak region—which means a widening of interest and a more general support in the work of the organization.

It all goes to show what work, enthusiasm and harmony can accomplish. The same spirit manifested throughout the coming 12 months will add a long list of items to the accomplishments of the Chamber of Commerce.

Similar members for special mention. The team, however, which brought in the greatest number of applications was the "Busy Bee"—F. M. Rumsstead.

Moslem Feast Day in American Churches

A Novel Sign of New World Interest in Christian Day of Prayer on Bairam. The Crisis in Mohammedanism—Turkey's Loss of Religious Leadership Causes Siege of Holy City by Arabs—Moslems Flock to American Schools

BY THE RELIGIOUS RAMBLER

Few persons in America a decade ago even so much as knew of the existence of the word "Bairam," or its meaning; now all the Protestant churches of America and the world are being called upon by mission leaders to observe it this year on November 9, as a day of prayer for Moslems.

The fact illustrates how the swift events in the near east have affected the religious thought and work of the world. Because Moslems use a lunar calendar, Bairam does not always fall on the same day. In fact, there are two "Bairams," the "Lesser Bairam," which marks the end of Ramadan, or the Moslem lent, and corresponds as a day of rejoicing to the Christian Easter; and the "Greater Bairam," which is the great Moslem feast of sacrifice, and the culmination of the annual haj, or pilgrimage to Mecca. Then each pilgrim, having fulfilled the various rites which the Koran and usage enjoin, slays a ram, a he goat, a cow or a camel, in the valley of Mina, outside of Mecca, to commemorate the ransom of Ishmael with the ram.

All over the Moslem world—the 200,000,000 Moslems offer a similar sacrifice. They either eat the meat of the sacrificed animal themselves, or else give it to the poor. One of the pilgrims of last year, in connection with the Turkish war, was that the skins of all animals slain at "Bairam" should be sold for the benefit of the Turkish army.

The authors of this Christian call to prayer on November 9, which falls on "Bairam," are the Continuation Committee of the Lucknow Conference of Missions in Moslem lands, of which Samuel M. Zwemer is chairman. Through the missionaries in Moslem lands this call to prayer will be published in the vernacular press, so that the Moslems themselves will know how Christians are keeping "Bairam."

Trouble for the Pilgrims

In this part of the world the Moslem pilgrimage to Mecca does not cut much figure; but it is an outstanding event in the politics and religion in Moslem lands. The Turkish and Egyptian governments both take official cognizance of it. The popularity of the pilgrimage has been increased of late, and now it calls to Mecca, an indescribable desert city in the heart of Arabia, more than 200,000 pilgrims from all Moslem lands. Every Moslem, who can afford to do so, is expected to make the pilgrimage once in his life. Mecca was the home of Mohamet, and there is the sacred Kaaba toward which all devout Moslems pray five times a day.

This year is a critical one of the Moslem history for many reasons, as the Lucknow committee points out. In the pilgrimage itself is sorely troubled. Arabia is aflame with disorder. Most pilgrims to Mecca go by way of Medina. The pilgrim is buried, and which is at present the terminus of the Hejaz railway. Medina, like Mecca, is a sacred city, and any Christian discovered in it would be visited with a swift and terrible death. The Austrian engineers on the railway are obliged to leave their trains and have their places taken by others a considerable time before they reach Medina.

Arabs Revolt Against Sultan

Because of the unrest in Arabia, Medina, this year, at the time of the pilgrimage, has been besieged by three Arab tribes, and the railway has been unable to take the pilgrims all the way to Medina. This has seriously interfered with the pilgrimage, because it means also that the long journey by caravan from Medina to Mecca is hindered by the same disorder. Arabia has always been troublesome, even in the days of Mohamet himself. Arabia's dissatisfaction toward Turkey may at any time break out in a concerted fashion. In various sections there is a rumor of substituting the Khalif of Mecca as Caliph of Islam, instead of the Sultan of Turkey, who is not of the blood of the prophet. Now the Sultan's political power for generations has been due primarily to his religious rank as Caliph or "Commander of the Faithful." If Arabia breaks away from Turkey, and private advice says that the Arabs were never nearer a general confederation for 50 years past than now—then no man can tell what will happen in the politics of the near east.

Religion and the War

While the connection between the Balkan war and religion may not be at once clear, the fact is observed that the defeat of Turkey has created at once an unrest in Moslem lands and stimulated among all the faithful a fervor for Islam. There has also been an unsettling of loyalty to the Turk.

It Is Near at Hand to Hundreds of Colorado Springs Readers

Don't neglect an aching back. Backache is often the kidneys cry for help.

Neglect hurrying to the kidneys and means that urinary troubles may follow.

Or danger of worse kidney trouble.

Here's Colorado Springs testimony. J. W. Goodspeed, 80, N. Spruce St., Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "I was troubled by pain and lameness in my back, caused by disordered kidneys. I was bothered during the day and night to quite an extent after I returned from work. Doan's Kidney Pills put me in good shape and I have been a strong advocate for them ever since. I am just as enthusiastic in my praise of them now as when I publicly recommended them several years ago. I have used them off and on since, and I can say that they are good for aged people. I am over eighty-two, but my complaints were all cured by Doan's Kidney Pills years ago."

as the custodian of the Moslem political power. While Moslems the world around have been making frantic appeals for the support of Turkey, so that British authorities in both Egypt and India have been really concerned, there have simultaneously been bitter charges against the Turk because of his religious laxity. The young Turk party are declared not to be orthodox Moslems. It seems written in the stars that Turkey will ere long lose her place as custodian of the green flag of Mohamet.

Reformers in Turkey have been aroused to unprecedented frankness, for they criticize the religious laxity of their rulers. The blunders which the reactionary type of Mohammedanism has made lead them to point out the lack of progress effected by Moslem nations. These reformers have been especially quick to see that the Christians of the Turkish empire have been making greatest progress, especially along educational lines.

Thriving to American Schools

Private advices just at hand report that American schools in the Turkish empire have opened with unprecedented attendance, despite the war. The missionary leaders express amazement that, notwithstanding the poverty of the people, they have sent their sons and daughters to the mission schools, with tuition fees in their hands, having been aroused by the military reverses to a sense of their fundamental need. The American College for Women at Constantinople, and its preparatory department, are full to the limit. Robert College, Syrian Protestant college, and a score of mission schools scattered in the interior, report overflowing classes. The situation is rather striking, as American educators with amazement for they had expected depleted ranks as a result of the war, with its intensified anticipations.

These schools are an immense asset to American prestige. They do more for the national reputation and for American trade also, than all the official channels of diplomacy. The story of America's part in producing leaders for the Turkish and Balkan nations, through its mission schools, is a familiar one. A few weeks ago Robert College, on the Bosphorus, celebrated its fiftieth anniversary. It started on September 16, 1863, with four students; last year it had 473 students, 50 professors and instructors, seven buildings and 50 acres of land. Robert College graduates are in posts of power all over the near east.

There was recently held at Jerusalem a convention of the Mission Educational Union of Syria and Palestine, with 100 delegates present. This represents the 16 societies, mostly American and British, which are engaged in Christian work in the Holy Land. The union is the result of the Edinburgh conference, and the aim is to raise the educational standard of its schools. An American, Rev. W. S. Nelson, was for two years president of the conference, and now British Quaker, Marshall Fox, succeeds him. Modern western methods of pedagogy in the schools of the Holy Land suggest an interesting line of thought.

Henry Martyn—100 Years After

One of those dramatic turns which the wheels of history frequently take, is reported in connection with the educational enterprise among the Moslems in which the west has shown such quickened interest. Recently all over Christendom the centennial of Henry Martyn's death was observed. He was the first missionary to the Moslems, a rare saint, and an extraordinary scholar. He died a lonely and tragic death at Tokat, a town in Asia Minor, near the Black Sea, and not far from the city of Sivas. Tokat is now a city of 30,000 inhabitants, two-thirds of which are Moslem. In celebrating the Martyn centennial, a meeting was held around the monument that marks his grave, and the proposition was made to establish in Tokat a high school, as a nonsectarian monument to his life work. The people laid their offerings on the pedestal of the monument, and 250 Turkish pounds were given out of their poverty. The missionary leaders are now undertaking to supplement this with enough money to establish the school.

The present extraordinary course of the celebration of "Greater Bairam" by Christians, brings out a multitude of such side lights upon the present projection of the spirit of the West into the life of the east. The Christian church of the twentieth century is henceforth cosmopolitan.

THREE HUNTERS FINED
$25 FOR TRESPASSING

The district attorney's office has invoked the law providing for a heavy fine for trespassing on private property will be rigidly enforced.
Three Colorado Springs men were caught hunting on ranches south of the city and were fined $25 each in Justice Dunnington's court Thursday.
Several cows it is said, have been killed by careless hunters and ranchmen in that vicinity are not kindly disposed toward the average hunter. The ranchers are keeping a close watch for trespassers.

EL PASO UP TO $2.90

El Paso Consolidated has held the interest of mining men on the Colorado Springs mining stock exchange during the last few days. The stock is selling freely at $2.90 and yesterday
2,400 shares changed hands. Thursday
1,300 shares were sold. The reason for the sudden activity in El Paso is a matter of inquiry among mining men.

WHAT HAPPENED TO MARY'S LAMB

Mary had a little lamb
Its fleece was sometimes white
But when it was fleece was dirty,
That lamb sure was a sight.

Now this was Mary's greatest care
To keep her little lamb so fair
To tell her should have a blackened lamb
When a white lamb it should be

But Mary loved the little lamb,
The lamb loved her, and so,
That lamb just tagged along behind,
Where 'ere she chance to go

Mary also loved a man
And he was quite a dude,
But when his eye lit on the lamb,
He certainly was rude

It quite broke Mary's little heart,
That people rude should be,
They'd be so awfully nice to her,
Until that lamb they'd see

It worried Mary quite a bit
She tried to get a way
To make that lamb as white as snow,
So in society he'd stay

She thought of making him a coat,
A ticket white as milk
But of what goods she'd make the wrap
Of woolen or of silk?

And then she thought of turpentine
Of chalk and gasoline,
She heard of different kinds of soap,
Of shades about sixteen

And then she up and changed her mind
It must be something new
She'd get a bright idea
And knew just what she'd do

It certainly would take no soap,
To clean that little kid,
Twas something far, far easier,
And this is what she did

She went to a paint store
And got a can of paint
And made that dirty little lamb
As white as any saint

Now Mary's neighbors are all over
Her name is Mrs. Doe
And she's singing loud the praise
And for the D. Cooley

TIGERS MAKE LAST STAND FOR CONFERENCE TITLE IN GAME WITH MINERS TODAY

Kramer Back in Place at End, Adding Much Strength to Locals; C. C.
Has Even Chance to Win

When the big clock ticks off the hour of 4:30 at a football field called Union in Denver today, and the frenzied crowds of fans are scattering over the criss-crossed field while the players are wrapping themselves in their blankets—then the world will know whether the last stand of the Tigers was successful, or this afternoon the Black and the Gold and the Blue and the White will stage the championship football struggle of 1913. The Miners have defeated two conference teams, while the Tigers have yet to chalk up a victory in the "Little Six."

The teams are more evenly matched than for years, and the Tigers will want a lineup that should be stronger than that which shattered tradition at Boulder a week ago. Kramer, the star end, will be back in the game today. He was out for the "knee" drill at night, and Taylor went back to the old place at right half, filling out backfield. Both Taylor and Clayburgh were not in the best of shape Saturday, but are feeling tip top today's contest. Clayburgh's kicks have been long and quick this week, and he should have the better of "Red" Gibson's "charley horse" has

The former displaced form in Boulder that was remarkable. Taylor on the other hand was off color. He should be better tomorrow on account of being in good condition.

Harper and Burris will probably handle Clayburgh's kicks. Considered two of the best in the state at this department, yet they will have to do some tail busting. The weakest place ordinarily so far as tackling is concerned is the middle of the field, where the big linemen come down. A back, in catching punts or running the ball from a kickoff, should never forget this and hike for the center whenever he can. The Tigers have upset the rule that linemen should not know how to tackle and in this line danger to the Miners with Ragle getting down on punts as fast as the ends, and with his tackling ability, the holes are all closed, so that the Miners will have to come up wherever and whenever they can.

Tigers Are Heaviest.
The Tigers will have the advantage of weight. The team is not a heavy one, but Golden is light this year. The Tigers will use the shift and also forward passes and tricks. At Boulder the team did its work on straight football. Their shift did not work, but with a dry field they expect to use it. The Miners so far, have shown only their shift. It is rumored that Coach Kessler and Buckingham have an extra card up their sleeve and may open something new.

Two special trains will carry the local fans to Denver today. The Denver & Rio Grande special leaves at 2:30 this morning, and the Colorado & Southern at 7:25. A large delegation of students and others interested will make the trip. The tickets on both roads are good on any of the regular night trains of the roads. The team will leave on the Denver & Rio Grande.

The teams will line up as follows:

DRAKE, CRIPPLED, MEETS
MISSOURI ELEVEN TODAY
COLUMBIA, Mo. Nov. 7.—A light workout today completed the Missouri State university team's preparations for the game with Drake here tomorrow. Zimmerman, center, will be unable to play tomorrow because of a twisted knee.

NEBRASKA CRIPPLED FOR WESLEYAN CONTEST TODAY
LINCOLN, Neb. Nov. 7.—With a football squad so badly crippled that three cannot enter the game and three others wearing marks of recent encounters, Nebraska will present a patched-up team when it goes on the field tomorrow against Wesleyan.

TERRORS-CATHOLICS TODAY'S ATTRACTION

Open Play to Feature Offense of Locals Against Heavy Sacred Heart Team

Spring football fans today will have the opportunity of witnessing some of the fastest open play ever unhooked on Washburn field. The Terrors will meet the fast Sacred Heart College eleven at 2:30 o'clock and the locals expect to win by the use of the new styles in football included in which will be the inside kick in several forms, double and triple forward passes and trick schemes for gaining ground.

Coach Acker's players completed their training yesterday afternoon with a long signal drill that brought forth results. The team is in splendid physical condition and will go into the game with the strongest lineup of the year.

Davis the swift little quarter will do the Terror kicking and he is dangerous within the 30-yard line on any kind of kicks. His quick outside punts are proving a feature of the Terror offense this year. The line from end to end is husky and anxious and the back field has already shown its class. Sacred Heart will arrive this morning.

DENVER REVOLVER TEAM VICTORS IN U. S. SHOOT

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. Nov. 7.—Winners in the outdoor championship of the United States Revolver association at 50 yards were well distributed throughout the country, according to the returns received by Secretary-Treasurer J. B. Crabtree of this city, who announced them today. A. P. Lane of New York city won the revolver match, with a score of 467. Dr. J. R. Calkins of Springfield, Mass., won the any pistol match, with 468. Dr. J. H. Snook of Columbus, O., won the military revolver match, with a score of 825. C. M. McCutcheon of Denver won the military record match, with a score of 217. The Denver Revolver club of Denver, Colo., won the military revolver team match, with a total of 776, and Col. W. H. Whigham of Chicago won the pocket revolver match, with a score of 210.

Arrangements have been made to start shooting in the indoor league December 1.

Utah and U. C. Ready for Their Game Today

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 7.—One of the big football games of the Rocky mountain region will be played here tomorrow, when the University of Utah meets the Utah eleven. The squad from Colorado arrived today in the evening. Both teams express confidence of victory, although Utah's lineup is weakened by disbandment of Travers and Summer for breaking training.

Utah students held a big demonstration here tonight.

GAFFNEY FAVORS TENER FOR LEAGUE PRESIDENT

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—President James E. Gaffney of the Boston National league club, today said he was in favor of the election of Governor John K. Tener of Pennsylvania to succeed Thomas J. Lynch as president of the National league. Governor Tener's election he said should be for a long term of years, and at a generous salary. The governor he added, "is by far the best man the National league could get for president."

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—When President Lynch was questioned regarding the report that Governor Tener of Pennsylvania would be a candidate for the position of chief executive of the National league, he said, "My administration cannot be so bad when they pick one of the foremost public men in the country to oppose me."

GIANTS BEAT WHITE SOX

BISPEE, Ark. Nov. 7.—The New York Giants again defeated the Chicago White Sox in a game here today.

WHITEFIELD DEFEATS "W" IN OPENING OF BASKETBALL

A quintet of boys from Whitefield defeated the employed boys basketball team at the Y. M. C. A. by the score of 10 to 9. The game was exciting and the play was excellent for the first of the season. The visitors made the trip in autos. Tonight the Fountain high school team will play the Y. M. C. A. five.

Doc White the veteran southpaw of the White Sox, is thinking seriously of joining the players who are making a tour of the world.

WESTERN LEAGUE WILL NOT CHANGE CIRCUIT

Franchisees to Remain as They Are.
"Doc" White Won't Buy
Des Moines

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—The Western league will stand pat on its circuit as it was constituted this year, according to President Norris of the league meeting here today. The directors' meeting tonight will handle routine matters only, and will not include the trading of annual reports, according to the number of games to be played next year and on the date of the scheduled meeting.

A desire on the part of some clubs, said to have originated at St. Joseph, Mo., to have franchisees taken from Topeka, Wichita and Sioux City, will not result in a change, one reason being that no cities of sufficient size and desirable geographical position are available, according to the president. A recent dispatch from Wichita indicated that the business men of that city will reorganize the club and keep the town on the Western league map despite a deficit it incurred this year.

President O'Neill declared it unlikely that Pitcher Doc White of the Chicago Americans would purchase a share in the Des Moines club, which it was reported recently he intended to do.

Three members of the board of directors—Holland, Rourke and Isbell—are here for the board meeting. Other managers are expected in tomorrow, and all will leave in a body for the minor league convention at Columbus.

'BOB WHITE' TAKES ISSUE WITH A SPORTING WRITER

Claims "Game Hogs" Won't Allow Poor Man to "Blow His Nose at a Sparrow."

To the Sporting Editor of the Gazette: If the editor of the "Gazette" in the Telegraph will read my article over more closely than he did in the first place, he will find that I did not raise any protest about the present closed season on quail. Nor did I say that hunters should be allowed to shoot quail. Further, I still adhere to my original opinion that the quail are not half cared for. Of course, any one should know that where there are plenty of farmers, as there are around Fountain, there is plenty of feed and care given the birds. But let Mr. Gustin go out through eastern Colorado right after a hard snow storm, with a foot or more of snow on the ground and the weather around the zero mark, then let him tell me where the protection comes in.

Any sportsman who knows anything of the habits of the quail can tell Mr. Gustin that they are not hardy little creatures, and are easily overcome by the cold. In many instances, I have, with the help of my pointer dog, found them half frozen and help v. on the ground, and have picked them up without having to catch them with a net. In other instances I have found them frozen to death. But let him understand, please, that I am not speaking of my doings here in Colorado. If he will furnish the conveyance when the weather is at its worst, and no matter how deep the snow may be or how cold it is, I am ready to go out with him and scatter feed where the quail are known to keep, and I don't care how far the waste is to go. I'm game, no matter if he does think I am trying to take a pot shot at a bunch of those Fountain "Bob Whites."

Mr. Clark deserves great credit for his earnest work in protecting the quail, and he has proven it in more than one instance, but what I most desire is to have Mr. Gustin's opinion of the parties that have a monopoly of the leased lands. In my opinion, I consider them no more than "game hogs" who will not give the poor workingman a chance to hunt, in other words, they consider that no one but themselves has the right to carry a gun, and the poor man dare not "blow his nose at a sparrow."

H. STEWART SMITH,
(BOB WHITE)

California a Favorite in Annual Rugby Game

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal. Nov. 7.—With teams about evenly matched in weight but California a shade the favorite on the season's showing, the rugby fifteens of the University of California and Stanford university will meet here tomorrow in the twenty-third annual football battle between the rival institutions.

The last seven contests have been rugby football the English game having replaced the American during the "station against" football because of injuries. Each university has won three rugby matches and last year they fought to a tie.

IOWA HOPE TO WIN
FROM INDIANA TODAY

IOWA CITY, Ia. Nov. 7.—With the weather map promising clear and fast for Saturday the Iowans hope for a solid and dry field seen about to be fulfilled. Confidence in the team's ability to trim the Hoosiers was apparent to the students although the game is looked upon as a hard bruising struggle against superior weight.

Frank "Wildfire" Schulte, the outfielder of the Chicago Cubs is on his way to his plantation in Woodbury, Ga. Schulte has vineyard peach orchards and plans to settle down and be a farmer when his baseball days are over.

PRINCETON FEELS FIT FOR HARVARD BATTLE

Tigers Will Be Outclassed in Every Department, Is the Belief

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 7.—On the eve of the battle with Harvard the Princeton football squad rested quietly in the university field house tonight under the watchful eyes of the coaches and Trainer Keane Fitzpatrick.

Every play the Tigers could possibly use against Harvard in the way of an attack was rehearsed thoroughly this afternoon. There was no scrimmaging, the nearest approach to it being a short drill in forming interference on the kickoff. In addition to the team work the coaches took Law and Horden, the punters, aside for some work in kicking. Captain H. Baker came in for a brisk practice at drop kicking and goal from placement.

Every one of the first string men except J. Baker is in good condition. He has developed a bad knee and is not likely to get in the game.

There is a decided feeling of optimism prevalent among the students as well as coaches and the Harvard money which is being offered at odds varying from 10 to 5 to 4 to 3, is taken as fast as it is offered.

The entire $2,000 seats in the temporary stadium were sold out tonight. The officials will be: W. B. Langford, Trinity, referee; Neil Bow, Michigan, umpire; David Fultz, Brown, head line man.

HARVARD PRACTICES ON HOTEL BALL ROOM FLOOR

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The Harvard football team paused here tonight on its way to meet Princeton in the annual game tomorrow on Osborne field. The players were quartered in an uptown hotel, where they had a chance to use a large ballroom on the upper floor for signal practice.

Head Coach Haughton announced that Swadlow would be started at half-back tomorrow in place of Mahan. It was understood, however, that the latter would be reserved for the later periods of the game, in order to take the place of Brickley in case the dropping kicking halfback became exhausted.

Trainer Donovan said tonight that with the exception of Trumbull, every Harvard player was in fine shape.

De Oro Retains Title Over Carney of Denver

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Alfred De Oro of Cuba retained his title of champion of the three-rushion billiards by defeating Joseph Carney in the third and final block of the match tonight, 64 to 48. The total score of the match was 150 to 148.

Carney led, 100 to 80 at the start of tonight's block, but failed to score in the first nine innings. De Oro played a steady game making runs in the high run of the match in the twenty-eighth inning and in the thirty-fourth inning. De Oro made a run of seven in the fifty-third inning and Carney made an equal number in the eighteenth in a last effort to catch his opponent, who made the deciding point in the eighty-sixth inning.

Ray and Vardon Beat Denver Crack Golfers

DENVER, Nov. 7.—Edward Ray and Harry Vardon, English golfers today defeated Walter Clark and Fred Bell, Denver professionals, and Walter Fairbanks, holder of the old men's championship of the United States, in exhibition golf here. The play was an 18-hole best ball match, which the Englishmen made in 66 1/2 under bogey.

SECOND ROUND FOR THE AUTUMN CUP PLAYED TODAY

The second 18-hole round of the annual Autumn cup competition at the Colorado Springs Golf club will be played today. The play is under handicaps, the lowest net scores for the total 72 holes winning the trophy.

KANSAS TO SEND SUBS AGAINST WASHBURN

LAWRENCE, Kan. Nov. 7.—Seven substitutes will start with Kansas in the game against Washburn university tomorrow, according to announcement tonight. There is no optimism here in regard to tomorrow's contest.

KILBANE'S MOTHER-IN-LAW
SUES FOR ALIENATION

CLEVELAND, O. Nov. 7.—John Kilbane, featherweight champion, today was sued for $25,000 damages by his stepmother, Mrs. Bridget Kilbane, who charges that he alienated the affections of her husband, John Kilbane, Sr., and that Mrs. Kilbane was separated about a year ago. Kilbane is 30 years old and blind.

John Anderson, once of the New York Yankees and later with the Washington Senators, is now a police man in Worcester, Mass. The New York "Gazette" still remembers how John dauntlessly stole second base on the Hilltop grounds with the bases full and two out, with a run needed to tie the score. Since he was told in that attempt to write baseball history John has always been for outward order and decency, a firm supporter of the law.

Championship at Stake Harvard vs. Princeton

Dartmouth-Pennsylvania Battle Will Be Important; Many Other Gridiron Contests for the Fans

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Football games which will have a decided bearing on the ultimate ranking of eastern college elevens are scheduled for tomorrow afternoon. These contests mark the passing of the preliminary season. They will bring together several of the leading elevens of the section. The feature games of the day bring together Harvard and Princeton at Princeton and Pennsylvania and Dartmouth at Philadelphia, although several of the other big teams face opponents who should prove dangerous.

The Harvard squad, more than 30 strong, spent the night before the game in this city and will move on to Princeton early tomorrow. The Princeton team is conceded to be the strongest eleven in the east this season.

Holy Cross counted against Harvard by picking up a fumbled punt, and Cornell forced the substitute team back for a touchdown in the final minutes of last Saturday's game. These points with three scored by Williams through a field goal, constitute the total 18 points recorded against Harvard. To offset this, the powerful Crimson machine has rolled up 170 points.

Princeton has improved. In Princeton, however, a team stronger and better grounded in the rudiments of football than any previous opponent, will be faced and the full power of the Harvard team will be tested. The Tiger aggregation is fast and strong and has improved and broadened its play since defeated by Dartmouth two weeks ago. Considered as a whole, the Princeton line should be able to hold the Crimson forwards in check, but the Harvard backfield is expected to prove faster and more shifty if Law is at his best, he should be able to hold his own in punting with either Brickley or Mahan.

Pennsylvania-Dartmouth. At Franklin field, where Pennsylvania and Dartmouth will meet, another fast and brilliant game should result. Each team has shown class. Neither this season, playing a combination of the old and new games, which has proved baffling for their opponents. With the exception of the 7-0-7 tie game with the Carlele Indians, the Pennsylvania team has swept over every team to date. Dartmouth, aside from its 6-0-0 victory over Princeton, has demonstrated it has a most powerful and brilliant attack. On a dry, fast field the game should be productive of some extremely spectacular open-field runs and forward-pass plays. The fundamentals of the old line plunging and stone wall defense have not been neglected, however, and it is doubtful if any two elevens in the east today are better prepared in every respect for the grueling game which is expected by the adherents of the two universities.

Yale will have her final tryout before facing Princeton next Saturday against the fast Brown university eleven. If the Eli aggregation plays up to the standard of its best work this season, Brown should be defeated.

Cornell-Michigan. Cornell has the honor of figuring in the only intercollegiate game of the day, meeting the University of Michigan eleven at Ithaca. Cornell is prepared to battle to a finish against the Wolverines, but the record of the Red

Yale will have her final tryout before facing Princeton next Saturday against the fast Brown university eleven. If the Eli aggregation plays up to the standard of its best work this season, Brown should be defeated.

KANSAS AGGIES WIN
MANHATTAN, Kan. Nov. 7.—The Kansas State Agricultural college defeated the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college at football today, 12 to 0.

Kansas scored first in the second period. Then, with the ball on the Texas 40-yard line, line plunges by Hartwig Agnew and Sidorsky put the oval across the Texas goal line for a touchdown. Goal was missed.

In the final quarter, the Kansans carried the ball by straight football from their own 20-yard line, to the Texas 10-yard line, where a forward pass, Dreeser to Loomis, scored another touchdown for Kansas. Goal was missed again.

Pueblo Will Have One
Football Game This Year
PUEBLO, Nov. 7.—The first and only football game to be played in Pueblo during the present season will take place on Thanksgiving day, when eleven representing Centennial and Central High schools will clash here.

Both schools were tardy in organizing teams for the reason that it was found impossible to secure a schedule of games, football having been dropped by most schools of southern Colorado.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1913.
WORTH INVESTIGATING

IN yesterday's Gazette there was an interview with Thomas E. Thomas, in which he contended that, under municipal operation of a coal mine, consumers in Colorado Springs ought not to pay more than $2.75 per ton for lignite coal. Coming from a man of no experience in mining, that statement might be dismissed as an irresponsible assertion, backed by nothing more substantial than air. But, coming from Mr. Thomas, with his many years' experience as a practical miner, the statement cannot be so easily waved aside. There is at least a presumption that Mr. Thomas knows what he is talking about. And, if he does, and lignite coal can be secured for $2.75, what shall be said for the intelligence of the people of Colorado Springs if they continue to pay $4? Is it worth $1.25 on every ton of coal just to maintain the local coal trust? Are we so fearful of trying municipal ownership that we must continue to pay this extra $1.25 rather than risk the experiment Mr. Thomas advises?

One thing is certain. The city commissioners owe it to the coal consumers of Colorado Springs to investigate Mr. Thomas' proposition. If he is altogether mistaken in his figures, then of course the plan for a municipal mine will have to be dismissed. But the city commissioners ought at once to appoint a committee to investigate this plan from every point of view. And then, with all the figures at hand, the matter can be submitted to the people for final decision.

There is all the more reason why the Colorado Springs commissioners should act, and at once, in the fact that Denver's utilities commissioners, acting under instructions of the city council, are already at work investigating the feasibility of municipal ownership for that city. Certainly if Denver can secure such an investigation from its reactionary commissioners, there should be no difficulty in securing an immediate investigation from the progressive commissioners here in Colorado Springs.

Since, if Mr. Thomas is correct, a municipal mine would mean a saving of something like $500,000 per year to Colorado Springs consumers—$17 for every man, woman and child in the city—there is every reason why the commissioners should investigate the proposition immediately.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

WITHIN the last two days more than 150 new members have been added to the Chamber of Commerce by the two energetic teams engaged in the "War of the Roses." Before tomorrow night it is altogether probable that as many more will be enrolled and the total membership of the organization will have reached 1,000.

The hustling ability displayed by both teams in the membership contest ought to be a source of public pride no less than the excellence of the results accomplished. The loyalty and public spirit which led a score or more of men to give their entire time for several days to the campaign deserved the reward of a generous response on the part of citizens. The Chamber of Commerce ought to have a minimum of 1,000 members at all times, for with the dues at the low figure of $10 a year there are easily that many people here who can well afford to help support the organization.

The Chamber of Commerce fills a place in the life of the Pikes Peak Region which could be taken by no other organization; neither is there room for a rival body. Experience has shown the folly of attempting to carry on such work through two or three separate commercial organizations, and not until all were consolidated in the present Chamber of Commerce was it made effective. This has been proven true in other cities as well, and it is the all-important reason for centering the energy and public spirit of the entire community in the Chamber of Commerce. With such support it can accomplish benefits of greater value to the Pikes Peak Region than could possibly be attained with two or three rival bodies in the field.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

THE coal strike cannot be settled by following out the suggestion of the Denver Chamber of Commerce, the importation of strikebreakers. Under such a plan disorder can be prevented as long as the militia remains in the field but immediately it is withdrawn violence will again appear. And to keep the militia in the coal fields permanently is too great a tax upon the people of the state.

Neither can conditions be permanently settled even if the governor adopts the more sensible suggestion, under martial law, of seizing the coal mines and operating them in behalf of the community. That might lead the operators to treat with their men, but it would not prevent subsequent labor difficulties.

Messrs. Persons and Thomas, the two Progressive representatives from El Paso County, have advanced the only real solution. That is to call the legislature together in special session for the enactment of legislation that will in the future prevent such a deadlock as exists at present, by providing for a permanent board of mediation and arbitration.

Why does not Governor Ammons act on this plan? The cost of a special session would be negligible, as compared with the continued use of the militia in the coal fields. Does he have a better plan not yet disclosed for the settlement of this strike? Is he a man of such flabby character that he fears to take any decisive action? Or is it that he doubts his ability to secure from the Democratic legislature the bill that everyone admits is absolutely necessary if the rights of the public are to be protected in future disputes between capital and labor?

The only effect of President Wilson's diplomacy on public opinion in Mexico, thus far, has been to create a feeling of contempt for what is regarded as American timidity. Huerta is making the same mistake that the Spanish government made fifteen years ago, in assuming that the desire of the Americans to resort to war only in the last extremity is an evidence of cowardice. This mental attitude of the Mexicans furnishes one of the best arguments for the adoption of a more aggressive policy by our Government.

The chief regret of Boss Murphy, just now, is that he didn't disbar Sulzer from ever again holding public office, while he had the chance.

COLORADO POLITICIANS AT SEA.

The retirement of T. M. Patterson from the newspaper business and the merging of the Denver Republican with the Rocky Mountain News has brought a change over the capital city which must cause the inhabitants to look around and wonder where they are. The Post is the only factor of the grizzled newspaper world which remains, and with no one to quarrel with it has nothing to do but be good. It is a novel and delightful situation and the people of the city of Denver and the state of Colorado ought to rise up and call him blessed, who has brought it about.

Politically a lot of people are undoubtedly at sea. Organization Republicans and Democrats have no representative in the newspaper field. The Post has always been independent, and Mr. John Shaffer, who purchased the News, Republican and Times, and merged the two first named, has declared his intention of making and keeping his newspapers independent, and it must be admitted that he shows every symptom of keeping his word.

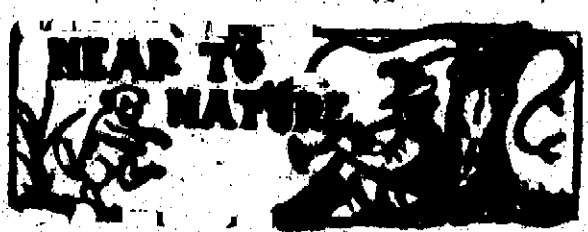

ALABAMA.
 From the Washington Star.
 The Star's special adviser from Birmingham printed Sunday confirm the report, previously printed, that Mr. Underwood has a fight on hand. Much as he is admired in the state, and greatly as his work as leader of the house is appreciated by the home folks, he yet must bestir himself if he is to reach the senate. His opponent has the start in the way of organization and publicity, and is popular as a campaigner.

At present the contest is somewhat on the order of country against town. Mr. Hobson is strong with the rural world. Shady Grove and Happy Valley, which look out on great stretches of farming lands, are Hobson centers. He roused them when he ran for the senate against Mr. Bankhead, and he has them roused now. They, and all that in them is and around about, like him and believe in him, and favor him for the senate.

Mr. Underwood has the ear and attention of the business centers, where capital and labor are employed on a large scale, and where the future of Alabama as a manufacturing state is being shaped. The man who works with money on a generous scale, and the man who works with his hands on a diligent scale, are more interested in the senatorial aspirant who exerts so much influence on his party in matters about which they are deeply concerned.

There are Democrats in Alabama as elsewhere, who differ with Mr. Underwood on the tariff question, who look with favor on a policy of taxation, founded on a moderate measure of protection to American industries. But such men would not turn to Mr. Hobson on the account, because he supported the Underwood tariff measure, and on the general proposition of a low tariff agrees with his rival.

Mr. Underwood's friends advise that he stomp the state—not in the way of a few speeches delivered by appointment in leading localities, but in the way of a county-by-county canvass, giving everybody a chance to hear, and all who desire a chance to heckle him.

CANOEING

BY GEORGE FITCH
 Author of "At Good Old Swash"

Canoeing is one of the grandest and most beneficial of outdoor sports. By its means the devotee is not only able to fill his lungs to capacity with fresh, clean air every day, but to soak them in water once or twice a week throughout the summer. Canoeing requires much strength in the wrists and also a level head. Any man who is a good tight rope walker can navigate a canoe with success. Experts in the art speak scornfully of the prevailing belief that canoes are tipsy and must be balanced. They declare that a canoe is safer than a steamboat, but when a man who cannot swim strikes gallies out in one of these temperamental craft they call him an idiot in a loud and harmonious chorus.

Experts in the art speak scornfully of the prevailing belief that canoes are tipsy.

Canoeing is a sport to which the devotee resorts to with a will. He is a 16-foot canoe, steering it deftly hither and elsewhere with a broad blade paddle, and ever and anon coming to the surface with a loud roar and pumping out the craft by seizing it in both hands and skillfully flipping 50 gallons of water down its inside.

Experts do not say that it is the best stroke for practical canoeing, but a great many canoeists are using the treading with considerable success. Real canoeists seek to navigate in plain water, preferring the kind that is adulterated with rocks and trout to an alkaline lake. After a canoeist has mastered his craft he usually takes it north to the headwaters of some divorcely river and after packing 50 pounds of frying pan and bacon, wrapped up in a blanket, in the bow, he careers down stream through rapids and over waterfalls for a few hundred miles. Whenever he dodges a rock it counts one for his side. Whenever he hits one he swims ashore and chalks up one for the river, as soon as he has died for the frying pan.

Other canoeists are still more adventurous. They prefer to zig up a trail and skim the lumpy lake for miles and miles. Those who have managed a small canoe with a large sail in a brisk breeze with the nearest life preserver many miles away decline to get awa-stricken over Blondin's feat of walking over Niagara Falls on a wire cable.

Canoeing develops the muscle and courage, and also gives the student thereof a beautiful bronze complexion on the shoulders and arms. Canoeists are also contented men. They are not continually clamoring to congress for a $10,000,000 appropriation to deepen the Mississippi. Give them a teacup full of water arranged slantwise over a mossy rock and they are happy and content.

The Best Kind of Love

BY RUTH CAMERON

—for the faults of married people continually spur up each of them, hour by hour, to do better, and to meet and love upon a higher ground.—
 Stevenson.

"Why were you so late?" said the maid to the man, reproachfully. After the first ceremonials, of greeting had been properly attended to. "I thought you would never come."

"I'll tell you just why, darling," said the man frankly. "I met Mr. Allen, that old neighbor of our, who was almost like a father to us after our own father died. I haven't met him for over a year and he wanted to know all about the whole family. He kept me nearly half an hour."

"He kept an hour, and you only had two hours to play with me! Couldn't you get rid of him somehow?"

"Not without hurting his feelings, dear."

"And wouldn't it have been better to do that than to shorten our evening go, dear? Don't you love me better than that?"

For a moment the man looked troubled. He was a man with a conscience and a kind heart, and he had high ideals of love. But the maid was one of those rare and fortunate women who can put attractively, and the man was young, and so, of course, he kissed away the point instead of trying to make her see that he would have been spoiling their evening together far more thoroughly by tampering on a kind of love in his haste to enjoy it.

For a moment it would not have done him any good if he had tried to explain. If he seemed expedient she might have pretended to understand, but she wouldn't have understood. For she is one of those people who are not capable of understanding the kind of love that makes those who feel it want to be more perfect in all their obligations than they have ever been before.

Her idea of a great love is an absorbing passion that would sacrifice anything to itself. "I could not love thee, dear, so well, loved I not honor more."

ODDS AND ENDS

It will be difficult for the average man to work up a great amount of indignation against those insurance companies who have voted to change the administration currency bill from one of twelve bank-owned, bank-controlled regional banks to one of four public-owned, government-controlled regional banks. To the average man the change appears to be a mighty good one.

Why standpat Republicans should have voted for such a change is a mystery. It was probably done just to embarrass the president. But he can turn the laugh on them by adopting their suggestions, and forcing the house to concur—as he can easily do.

When an experienced coal operator as Thomas E. Thomas makes the unqualified assertion that Colorado Springs ought not to be compelled to pay more than $2.75 per ton for lignite, isn't it about time for the city commissioners officially to investigate his proposition?

Public ownership has a fearsome sound to some unhardened individualists, but if public ownership will do away with $4 coal isn't it about time we were relegating our outworn prejudices to the rear?

Governor Johnson to Senators Cummins, Borah, Norris: "Well, how about the 'new Republicanism' in Massachusetts?"

Standpat papers said the entrance of such a radical as Johnson into the Hay state campaign spelled Bird's disastrous defeat. In view of the relative position of Bird and Gardner, can the California governor be blamed for emitting a modest chirp?

Indiana and Colorado are both enjoying martial law. And in both states Democratic governors refuse to call together Democratic legislatures to enact laws stopping for the future such industrial warfare as now prevails in each state. Doesn't the Democratic party have the nerve to tackle this problem? If not, make way for the Progressives.

But English jingoes will doubtless claim that former Ambassador Bryce's very popularity with Americans is confirmation of their charge that he has not used his full efforts to protect British interests. For that's the jingo habit of mind.

"Boss" Barnes admits Republicans lack a majority of the New York legislature. But he hopes, from independent and Progressive, to pick up enough votes to control. The independent or Fugate side who votes to sustain "Boss" Barnes ought to be waited upon at once by a vigilance committee from his constituents.

The Denver chamber of commerce plays true to form. It finds that the coal strike is the fault solely of the miners. If ever the Denver chamber of commerce showed an ability to take a broad view of affairs—it ever it saw any side to any question, except the side of money—then that incident has long ago passed from the memory of men.

The Colorado college Tigers have a tough enough job out for them today at Denver, when they meet the Princeton Tigers face when they line up against old Johnny Harvard—and Brickley.

The Grand Junction Light company in October bought from a local hydro-electric company $1,100 worth of current and hold it to consumers for $12.75. Apparently the Grand Junction concern has as soft a snap as our own lighting company.

Mr. Hill sounded the warning that it is time for the investment concerns of this country to call a halt on so much watered stock. No doubt Mr. Hill is wise enough to see the handwriting on the wall—that the people of this country are more and more getting onto the graft back of watered stocks.—Fort Collins Courier.

But the average Colorado promoter still thinks the state should exercise no control whatever over the issue of stocks and bonds.

Vernor Z. Reed has bought all the outstanding stock of the Grand Junction News, which will in future be run by his nephew, George U. Reed. The News has been under the editorial management of James A. Becker since the retirement of Karl A. Bickel. It has been Progressive.

"Cheer up—times are improving," editorializes the Philadelphia North American. But how can a Republican be made to believe that?

Anyway, the Republicans won one see-blorious victory Tuesday. Philadelphia's Tammany—the Penrose, McNichol, Vane trinity—came back into power in Philadelphia. So the old party is not yet dead.

Republicans campaigned in the states in which elections were held Tuesday on the tariff issue. No doubt that they didn't even get started would seem to prove that, as an issue, the tariff is nevermore.

Legislation, moralizes the Philadelphia Public Ledger, cannot make man happy. Maybe not, but the right kind of legislation can help a lot.

Kansas standpaters want Arthur Capper to run for governor, in order to "harmonize" the Republican party. When Arthur Capper ran for governor last year these same standpaters knifed him and elected a Democrat. Which is their idea of harmony.

This new lot of Rose Beads affords unusual choice—
 $1.25, $2, $2.50 and $5.
 A little later they will be very hard to secure.

IN THE EARLY DAYS

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 8, 1883.
 Cashier W. S. Welch of the First National bank, which then had a capital and surplus of $85,000, returned from his vacation.

The B. F. Crowell hose company selected a football team, with J. Robert Martin as captain, to meet the college team on Thanksgiving.

"Why not burn the weeds in the park near the depot?" asked the Gazette. "They are not a good advertisement for an aesthetic town."

City Treasurer M. T. Hale left for Stamford, N. Y., to marry Miss Lucy D. St. John.

El Paso Republicans celebrated the victory with a bonfire at Tejon and Pikes Peak, and speeches by W. Boynton, "Uncle Sam" Taggart and H. H. Eddy.

General Manager Colbrin of the Santa Fe reported that there were 10 men at work on the grade of the Midland Terminal.

Political Philosophy of Barnes

Henry H. Barnes in New York World.
 "The maintenance of free institutions in a democracy, a form of government can only be made secure by the voluntary action of the people in placing limitations on the power of their representatives. The battle for human freedom requires that we all unite for our own preservation and make compact with one another that we will not join in the establishment of a tyranny whereby a single citizen shall be deprived of that which is his. There can be no peace, no order, until the establishment of this principle is finally accepted."

William Barnes Jr., the brains and backbone of the "Old Guard" of the G. O. P., said a pencil and, turning his huge frame over the flat-top of a table, he said in the Republican state headquarters, rapidly wrote the above sentence upon a sheet of paper, which he handed to me. We had been talking about the big political questions that confront the people of the United States today, and I felt just about as J. Van Vleeten Otcut must have felt when he said that he didn't really know whether Barnes was a philosophical politician or a political philosopher. If the truth be told, he is a good deal of both.

The Appearance of the Man.
 Barnes is a big man, every way you look at him. He is very tall and powerfully built, more than six feet high, big of girth, broad of shoulder and deep of chest. The large head, with its heavy, determined, manly face, is set upon a thick, muscular neck. He is big—almost as big as Penrose; but there is nothing coarse about him. Barnes has birth and breeding as well as brains and brawn, and he has managed never to let the Harvard polish fade.

It would be difficult to find a more forceful personality, one more naturally destined to lead men. At eighteen he entered Harvard, and before he was twenty-two was graduated with highest honors. While at college he made his presence felt in all directions. He became editor-in-chief of the "Crimson" and virtually ran the Historical society and the Philopoeical club. When he had taken his degree magna cum laude he went into newspaper work and politics.

Albany was one of the banner Democratic counties of the state, and the city of Albany always voted up big majorities that voted "In the circle under the star." That was in 1888. In 1892 Barnes attended his first state convention as a delegate, and four years later he had made Albany county republican. He has kept control there ever since.

What is Needed in Education
 "You ask me," he said, "what seems to me the most important question before the people of the United States today? My answer is as simple as the question. It is all contained in the one word 'education.' Today the majority of the voters do not understand the fundamental dangers to which they are exposed; they do not grasp the meaning of the first assault ever made in America upon the constitutional protection of individual rights. They refuse to follow Mr. Roosevelt, but they body else into the wilderness; they must be educated. Fifteen years ago it would have seemed absurd to suggest the necessity of educating the people to the sacredness of the constitution for the maintaining of liberty regulated by law, and the guarantee of the rights of the minority and of the individual under the rule of the majority. Now it is the most important thing in the affairs of the country."

Restraining the Majority.
 Mr. Barnes is a very forceful speaker either in private conversation or from the platform. He has a fine, strong voice that seems to ram home every sentence. He uses up a good deal of muscular energy in talking. Sometimes he brings his fist down pat the heavy oak desk in a way that would splinter a more flimsy piece of furniture; at times he emphasizes his words by striking his chest with his clenched right hand, and the blow can be heard 50 feet away. He paused for a moment and said:

"Now, in this plan of things which was established in the United States for the preservation of the rights of each person it was unthinkable that a majority would not attempt through legislation to violate these rights. There are few persons who do not every day, in their own acts, violate the rights of others. It could hardly be expected that a legislative body could be other than human, and that being so, it would chafe under the restrictions placed upon it and would proceed to do things which would invade the domain of the individual in his guaranteed rights. Therefore, courts were established, so that when laws were passed infringing the individual rights of any person that person would be able to get protection and redress. That is what makes the American plan of government so attractive on earth."

Conservative and Progressive.
 "But, surely, Mr. Barnes," I interrupted, "the Republic is just as much pledged to the maintenance of the constitution and of individual rights as the Republic is to the rights of the majority." Mr. Barnes is quick outright.

"No one can forget," he said, "as the Democracy must recognize the cleavage as the Republican party had to. The Baltimore platform was directly aimed at individual rights, and although thousands of the men who voted for President Wilson think as we think on that subject, other thousands who voted for him think as the Socialists and Mr. La Follette think. He only states what is a fact. When Democrats will insist upon knowing what they are voting for, and then there will be the same division as has already taken place in the Republican ranks."

Failure of Unlimited Democracies.
 "The experience of the human race with direct government, with unlimited democracies, has been pathetic. Thank heaven that the United States is a representative government, a limited democracy. When you establish an unlimited democracy, such as existed in Athens, that democracy cannot endure, because the majority will tyrannize over the minority. They have all fallen because of the disorder they produced; and as every human being loves order, he is willing to submit to the rule of a despot in order to secure it."

Not an Antidote to Socialism.
 "The Progressive doctrine, Mr. Barnes," I said, "in that the recall of judicial decisions and the direct election of senators, together with the enactment of paternal legislation for the regulation of trusts, old-age pensions, minimum wage laws, etc., will serve as a check to socialism and an antidote to anarchism?"

"No," said Mr. Barnes. "The way to check socialism is to educate the people and to show them that the rock of individualism is the only safe foundation for any democratic government, because the strength and character of a nation depend upon the individuals in it, and it can have no strength or character of its own separate therefrom. Are the liberty and responsibility of our American youth to be sapped by paternalism? What incentive is there to the individual who begins life on a crutch known as the state. What Edison, what Morse, what Marconi would have labored as those men did had he known that the state would appropriate the products of his self-developed genius? A great inventor may be ready to give all his knowledge for the good of his fellowmen, but he would never have started had he thought that his accomplishment would be exacted as a tribute by society. Many men will find in the co-operation of success and in the joy of labor an ample reward for their efforts, but free individuals demand the right to choose whether they are or not."

"It is not, therefore, fear of the people that moves me to work for the maintenance of individual labor and responsibility, but it is the higher desire that each individual of the people may grow. There is always more reason in one man than in a multitude."

Duty of Republican Party.
 "This nation has risen and prospered beyond any nation ever known upon earth. It will continue to grow and prosper if its people will continue to stand firm upon the rock of individualism and to educate themselves to the realization that the security which they possess is not the grant of a sovereign nor subject to withdrawal at the hands of the voters. It is the duty of every true American who undertakes to warn his fellow citizen to convince them of the danger that threatens; to educate them. This is I realize it thoroughly, a tremendous
